TheatreRats Announces 2007 Season:
Includes cult classic The House of Yes and
The Third Annual Chester Horn Short Play Festival

January 2, 2007 – After a critically-acclaimed 2006 season, the New Year promises to be bigger and brighter for this exciting young company.

TheatreRats' mainstage production for 2007 is The House of Yes by Wendy MacLeod. A mentally unbalanced young woman (who thinks she's Jackie Kennedy) flies into a murderous rage when her brother returns home to reveal he's engaged. This black comedy about dysfunctional families, incest and the Kennedys, is sure to amuse and horrify in equal measure.

Following her recent acclaim for directing with TheatreRats (The Changeling) and Milk Can Theatre Company (Charles Mee's Trojan Women 2.0), Lauren E. Reinhard will direct The House of Yes. Lauren's work was most recently lauded as, "daring, provocative, and accomplished", taking on pieces both daring and complex in their scope and size.

TheatreRats will also present The Third Annual Chester Horn Short Play Festival, following up on September's sold out Second Annual Festival at the Medicine Show Theatre.

Fundraisers and parties are also planned and it promises to be another great year for the Rats.
